"Garrick Theatre"

"When Dad Married Fury" reimagines the classic trope of the rich man and the gold digger, complete with adult children squabbling over estate. Here again, David Williamson is exploring ideologies and their effects on everyday lives through family drama. The danger with such a familiar story line (think Lang Hancock and Rose Porteous, J Howard Marshall and Anna Nicole Smith and countless others) is that it could easily follow stereotyped lines. Williamson plays with audience expectations to surprising effect. Until almost mid-way through the events are almost predictable, but as soon as our catalyst, new wife Fury, arrives, Williamson starts to flesh out stereotypes in unpredictable ways.

Date: Fri 11 March
Venue: Garrick Theatre
Cost: $31
